FINE CROPS

For Breckenridge County—Beard Brothers Are Farming On a Large Scale—Other Farmers Successful.

Morris B. Kincheloe, assistant cashier of the Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Company, was out on the farms of Beard Bros., near Hardinsburg, last week and what he saw was so interesting and uplifting in the business of farming that he was specially impressed with the improved conditions of farming and the good outlook for crops. He saw on these farms 200 acres of the finest clover, 300 acres of fine corn and 200 acres of wheat, good as last year's crop, 25 acres in tobacco already set out and enough plants to set out 75 acres more. He said if the season continues favorable the Beard Bros. will have one of the best crops they have ever produced. The Beard Bros. are young, pushing farmers and their work is the secret of their great success in farming. What the Beards are doing, other farmers in Breckenridge county are doing. Not on so large a scale probably, but they are doing good farming and the harvests of this year's crops will tell a story of one of the best crops, save tobacco, that the county has produced in many years. Prospects all over the county were never better for an abundant yield and good business.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to express my appreciation and many thanks to the faculty, pupils and to all who assisted in the preparation of the graduation exercises for the week of May 16. Especially, do we thank the Misses May for their services in drilling the girls for the choruses.

G. R. McCoy.

The will was dated February 5, 1915, and witnessed by C. W. Moorman and F. P. Payne.
